

Restorative Practices and Student Discipline

Vanessa Hernandez, Youth Policy Director
ACLU of Washington

Impacts of Suspension and Expulsion

- Graduation rates
- Post-secondary education
- Test scores

- “Feedback loop”
- Culture of punishment
- Dropout
- Juvenile justice involvement

“School to Prison Pipeline”: Defined

- Policies and practices that push children out of classrooms and into the juvenile justice system.
- Direct:
 - school based arrest by school resource officer or
 - referral to law enforcement.
- Indirect:
 - exclusionary school discipline
 - and pushout.

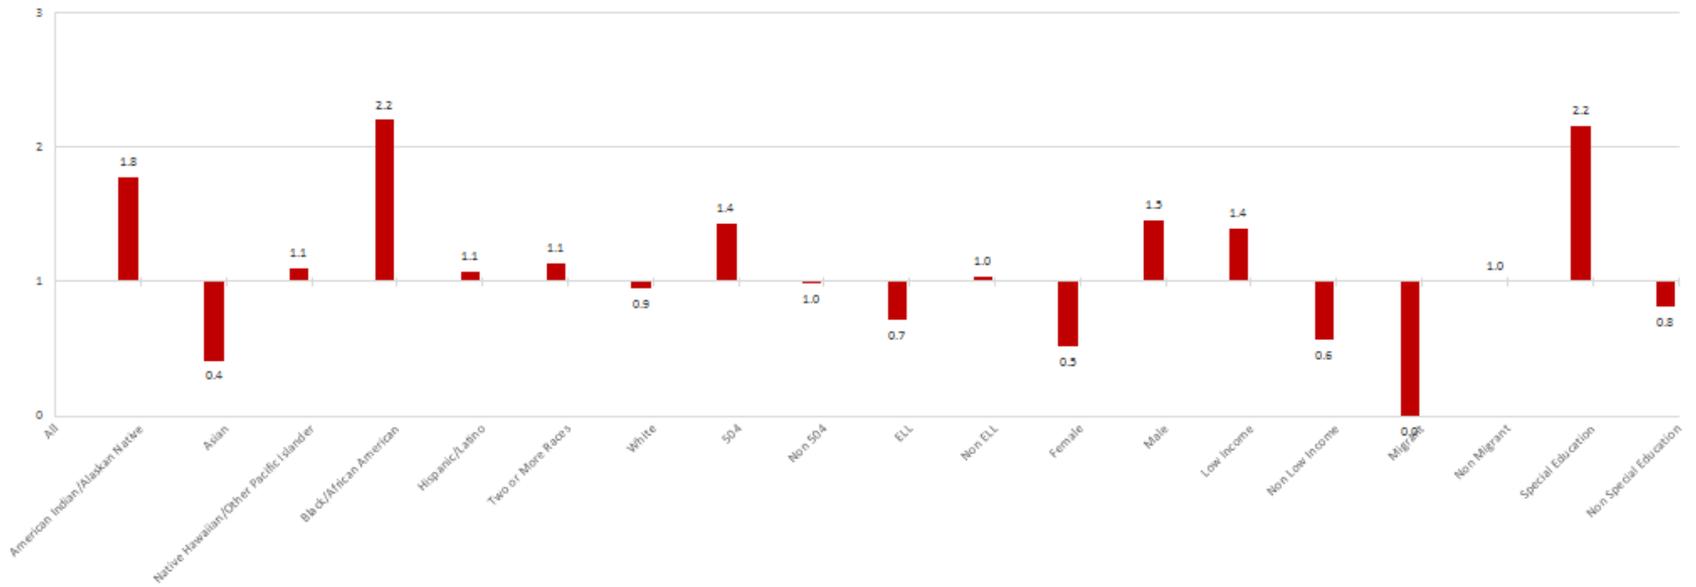

RACE

SPECIAL NEEDS

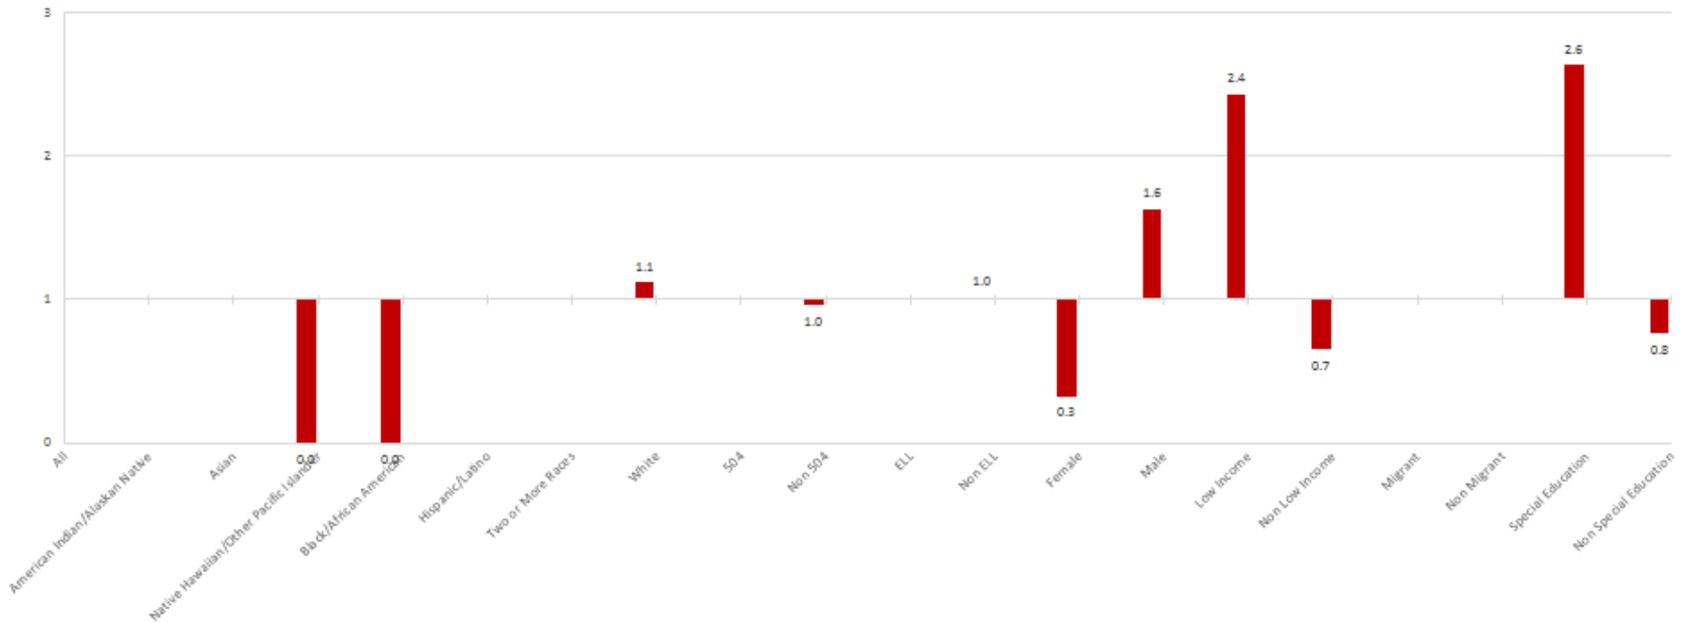

Evergreen School District

2015 School District Composition Index* by Student Group
Evergreen (Clark) (Overall Discipline Rate 4%)

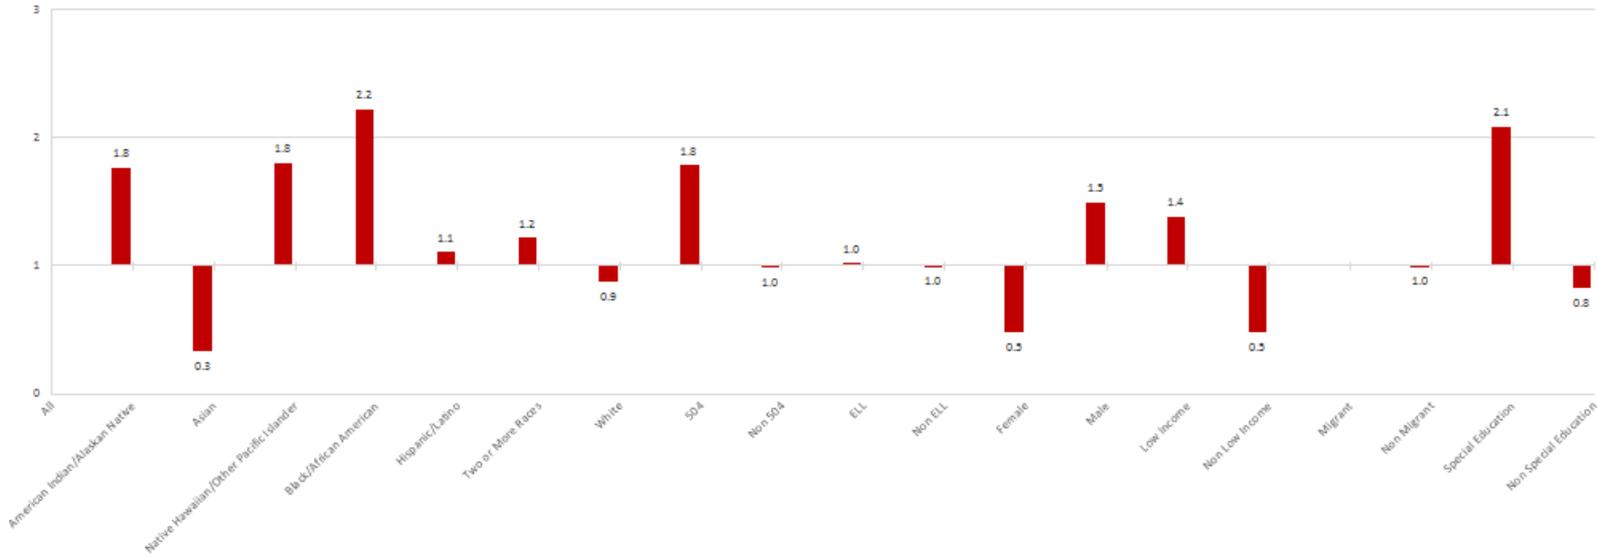

Camas School District

2015 School District Composition Index* by Student Group
Camas (Overall Discipline Rate 0.9%)

Vancouver School District

2015 School District Composition Index* by Student Group
 Vancouver (Overall Discipline Rate 6.1%)

WHAT ARE RESTORATIVE PRACTICES?

ACLU

AMERICAN CIVIL LIBERTIES UNION of WASHINGTON

FOUNDATION

Defined

- “Restorative Justice is a worldview, rooted in indigenous principles, and a theory of justice that emphasizes bringing together everyone affected by wrongdoing to address their needs and responsibilities and to heal the harm as much as possible.”

--- Fania Davis, social justice activist and civil rights attorney

Assumptions or Values

Retributive

- Teacher's job is to teach subject matter.
- Students behavior is designed to disrupt class.
- Punishment increases the likelihood of responsible behavior.
- Consistency comes when the same behavior leads to the same punishment

Restorative

- Teacher develops whole child skills.
- Student behavior is attempt to meet needs.
- Safe, caring school communities and relationships teach responsible behavior.
- Consistency comes when the same process is used to address behavior.

Restorative Practices

- What happened?
- Who was harmed?
- What are the needs and responsibilities of everyone impacted?
- How do we address those needs?
- How do all impacted come together to heal harm?

Potential Elements of Restorative Schools

- Flexible policies
- Consistent language/modeling
 - Clear teaching/modeling of behavior expectations.
 - “Affective” statements.
 - Consistent use of questions that focus on relationships
- Restorative circles or conferences, student voice
- Student supports

What are the outcomes?

Community Advocacy

Questions?
Comments?
Brilliant Ideas?

VHERNANDEZ@ACLU-WA.ORG

